

CURTAIN FABRIC
Krishna Berry

1. In the living room, a Donald Baechler flower painting hangs over a comfortable armchair.
 2. Looking down on the living room ottoman.
 3. A backsplash of blue-gray Metro subway tile from Urban Archaeology gives the small kitchen distinction.
 4. Kitchen cabinetry is lined with Italian art paper from New York Central Art Supply.
 5. A Satsuma porcelain baluster urn is tucked under an onyx-topped console in the dining room.
 6. Sachs opened up a typically tiny New York bathroom by brick-laying large marble tiles from floor to ceiling. Shower curtain, Aleta's Mughal Garden.
 7. To display an eight-year-old boy's toy collection, Sachs inset shelves into his bedroom walls and lined them with turquoise billiard cloth.
 The twin Indian-inspired headboards and bed frames are by John Robshaw.
 8. In the master bedroom, an Indian miniature portrait and a scattering of jewelry on an 18th-century Venetian painted commode.
 9. Man Ray etchings above the commode. The lamps are made from Chinese altar candlesticks.

CHAIR FABRIC
Cream Hibiscus Branch